NEWS RELEASE

Senate Majority Leader Ken Sikkema, R-Wyoming, issued the following statement after hearing that Gov. Jennifer Granholm plans to veto legislation addressing problems with the Detroit-Wayne County Mental Health Commission:

“I’m extremely disappointed that the governor is once again responding to a problem by waiting until someone else can solve it for her. Leadership means making tough decisions and solving problems. The mismanagement of mental health services in Wayne County is putting mental health clients at risk statewide. The governor needs to drop her cloak of indecision and sign these bills.”
